SEC Approves Amendments to the Short Interest Reporting Requirements; Effective Date: July 3, 2006

Executive Summary

On February 3, 2006, the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) approved amendments to Rule 3360 relating to the short interest reporting requirements.¹ The amendments expand the short interest reporting requirements to over-the-counter (OTC) equity securities. The short interest reporting requirements, as amended, are set forth in Attachment A of this Notice. The amended short interest reporting requirements become effective on July 3, 2006.

Background and Discussion

Currently, Rule 3360(a) requires members to maintain a record of total short positions² in all customer³ and proprietary firm accounts in NASDAQ securities (and listed securities if not reported to another self-regulatory organization (SRO)) and requires members to report such information to NASD on a monthly basis.⁴ Short interest reports must be made as of the settlement date designated by NASD. Currently, the designated settlement date is the 15th of the month, or the preceding settlement date if the 15th is a non-settlement date. Reports must be received by NASD no later than the second business day after the reporting settlement date. After review by NASD, the short interest data is consolidated by security and disseminated to the public, generally on the 8th business day after the reporting settlement date.

On February 3, 2006, the SEC approved amendments to Rule 3360 that expand the short interest reporting requirements to OTC equity securities. For purposes of the amended short interest reporting requirements, OTC equity securities are defined as any equity security that is not listed on The NASDAQ Stock Market or a national securities exchange.⁵ Currently, members are required to maintain and report to NASD short positions in NASDAQ securities. Further, members must report to NASD short positions in listed securities that are not otherwise reported to another SRO. Accordingly, the amended short interest reporting requirements will require that members maintain and report to NASD all short positions in NASDAQ securities and OTC equity securities. If members have short positions in listed securities that are not otherwise reported to another SRO, those short positions should be reported to NASD as well.

In recognition of the technological and system changes that may be required to implement the new requirements, the implementation date for the amended short interest reporting requirements will be July 3, 2006.

Endnotes

- 2 Rule 3360(b) provides that short positions required to be reported under the rule are those resulting from short sales as the term is defined in SEC Rule 200 of Regulation SHO, with limited exceptions. SEC Rule 200 of Regulation SHO provides, in part, the following: "The term 'short sale' shall mean any sale of a security which the seller does not own or any sale which is consummated by the delivery of a security borrowed by, or for the account of, the seller."
- 3 Short sale positions held for other broker-dealers that fall within the definition of short position provided in Rule 3360(b) must be reported under Rule 3360(a), unless these positions already are reported to a self-regulatory organization. See Notice to Members (NTM) 03-08 (January 2003).
- 4 Non-self-clearing broker-dealers generally are considered to have satisfied their reporting requirement by making appropriate arrangements with their respective clearing organizations. See NTM 03-08 (January 2003).
- 5 For purposes of the short interest reporting requirements, OTC options and non-standard equity derivative products (e.g., equity swaps, contracts for differences, etc.) are not included within the definition of OTC equity securities.
